

"Don't count on nature to heal herself, what if Nature herself is counting on us."

Jai Hind

I am cadet Santosh Kumar Prasad, 46th Assam Medical company, Dibrugarh University, HQ Dibrugarh, NER DTE.

5th June 1972 the day on which this auspicious day was established, and just after 2 years in 1974 the first world environment day was celebrated with the motto "Only One Earth".

After that it was celebrated in all the subsequent years with different themes. The theme of a particular WED and a global host is allotted by the United Nation Organisation every year and this year our theme is "ecosystem restoration" and Pakistan will be the global host for the day.

In India, World Environment Day is celebrated with a great sense of responsibility. NCC, India's largest uniformed youth organisation which always comes forward to take active participation in this event and cadets of NCC give their best in spreading awareness among people by planting trees and each year a tree plantation drive is being conducted by NCC to make people aware about its importance.

The world is suffering from a deadly corona pandemic. In this situation the theme “Ecosystem restoration” has a special significance, by just focusing on our surrounding ecosystem we the cadets of NCC can take part by planting trees in our neighbouring areas. And motivate others by actions as well by sharing it's photo on social media. It's also the only way to make a better earth. To plant more and more trees and focus on sustainable development side by side. “We are all temporary visitors on earth, and we owe it to ourselves to never let any negative condition distract us from the beauty of life.”
Nature provides enough to fulfill the needs of human beings, but can't give enough to fulfill their greed.

With all these values I am sure we all won in this movement of restoration of our mother nature. Happy Environment Day to you all.
